THE BATHING PAVILION DESTROYED. & YOUNG MUSICIAN LOSES HIS LIFE-THE DAMAGE ABOUT $100,000.

ABOUT $100,000.

The bathing pavilion and adjoining bathing-bouses at Long Beach were destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. A large amount of property yesterday morning. A large amount of property and one life were lost. It was twenty minutes of 3 o'clock when John Gory, the fireman on duty at the engine-house, a structure about 1,000 yards west of the bathing pavilion, noticed smoke and flame issuing from the northwest corner of the building. He ran to the pavilion and awakened the assistant fireman, John F. Thompson, who happened to be sleeping there. In the building were sleeping the men and women employed in the laundry and as bathing attendants, fifteen call boys, a plumber, the assistant engineer, and the musicians of Schriener's orchestra. Mr. Thompson on being awakened ran along the corricail boys, a plumber, the assistant engineer, and the musicians of Schriener's orchestra. Mr. Thompson on being awakened ran along the corridor shouting fire and kicking in the doors of all the rooms where people were sleeping. The paython was built of Georgia pine and the flames made rapid headway. The warning of the assistant engineer, however, gave every one time to get out of the building. Some had barely time enough to get their clothes on and get out, while others managed to save their trunks and other luggage.

Meantime the alarm had reached the hotel and the gnests, 300 in number, quickly assembled on the piazzas and in the corridors. The wind was blowing strongly from the southwest and carried the flames and burning einders directly toward the hotel, which was soon on fire in several places. There Iwas considerable excitement among the guests, and trunks and other luggage were removed to the piazzas and the walks in front of the hotel, Mr. Southgate at the first alarm had marshalled his forces, and the fire apparatus was quickly pat in use. It would have been useless to attempt to save the bathing pavilion and the bath houses, for the Georgia pine of which they were largely composed burned with great rapidity and fierceness. Every effort was made, however, to prevent the

for the Georgia pine of which they were largely composed burned with great rapidity and fierceness. Every effort was made, however, to prevent the spread of the fire. The hotel was drenched with water, and a portion of the plank walk between the burning building and the restaurant was torn up, while the resi was covered with sand. But in spite of every effort the hotel would undoubtedly have been burned had not the wind suddenly shifted to the north, blowing the flames and enders out to sea. In an hour only a heap of smouldering rums was left of the pavilion and bath-houses.

When the tire was over, those who had been in the building when it took fire were called together. All were found to be safe excepting a young musician, Adolub Friedrich. He escaped from the building at the first alarm with his trunk, and was seen by several persons outside of the burning building. He then disappeared, and is supposed to have returned to his room to try to save his instruments. Later in the day his charred remains were found in the ruins, He was twenty-five years old, and a native of Sottershauseu, a city of the Prevince of Thuringia. His tarber, who is a restaurant keeper in that city, intended his sou for the priesthood and sent him to the seminary at Dresden. But Adolph chose music as his profession, and became a member of a military band. He was engaged by Mr. Schreiner last winter, and came with him to this country in the sorner. In Schreimer's orchestra he played the first bass viol and first bass toba. An inquest was held by a coroner from Fas Rockaway, and a verdict of accidental death by fire was rendered. him to this country in the soring. In Schreiner's orchesira he played the first bass viol and first bass tuba. An inquest was held by a coroner from Far Rockaway, and a verdict of accidental death by fire was rendered. Friedrich will be beried at Rockville Centre, the Hempstead Improvement Company, which owns the Long Beach property, paying the finaeral expenses. Mr. Schreiner will creet a tombstone to his memory.

The bath-houses and payihon were built four years ago, and were commodious and well appointed. The bath-houses were 1.200 in number, built on a platform over 100 feet long. Between the bath-houses and the beach were rows of raised seats for people watching the bathers, and at one side was an open payilion, also for the accommodation of spectators. The bathing payilion was about 600 feet long and two stories high. It was of the Queen Anne style of architecture, the architect being Bruce Price, of this city. It contained parlors, offices, club rooms, sleeping rooms and a laundry. In it at the time of the fire were 4,000 bathing suits, besides a large amount of other valuable property. The loss on the building and the property in it belonging to the hotel was $75,000. The musicians of Schreiner's orchestra are heavy losers by the fire. Many of then did not save even their coats and hats, and all of their instruments were destroved. The value of their instruments were destroved. The value of their entire the property is fully $5,000 and many of the meannot be replaced at any price. Mr. Seitz, the cornet-player, lost among other things six corof their instruments were destroved. The value of the lest instruments is fully $5,000 and many of them cannot be replaced at any price. Mr. Scitz, the cornet-player, lost among other things six cornets. C. Brügmann, the trembone-player, who has eight children, lost everything. The violin-player, Schiel, reckons among his losses a violin valued at $600. Mr. Schreiner lost all of his music, which is valued at at least $5,000, and which it will take years to replace. A considerable amount of money belonging to those sleeping in the building was also lost. Joseph Quickburn, the superintendent of the bathing-houses, lost $150 in money and $100 in clothing. Mr. Scitz, who, previous to his joining Schreiner's orchestra, hade been playing in Russia, lost $00 rubles. The origin of the fire is unknown. A subscription of over $1,000 was raised among the gness at the hotel for the benefit of the sufferers by the fire. In consequence of the fire Mr. Southgate intends closing the hotel on Monday.

THE WILL OF EDWARD RIDLEY.

THE WILL OF EDWARD RIDLEY.

The will of the late Edward Ridley, the well-known merchant, who died on August 21 at his home in Gravesend, L. L. was filed with Surrogate Bergen, in Brooklyn, yesterday. The estate is valued at upward of $2,000,000. The will was made on July 11, 1876. It appoints Leopold Gustahl, Richard M. Hartley, Edward Albert Ridley and Mrs. Carrie Ridley, as executors. The two last-named are his son and widow. Fo the two sons, Edward and Arthur Ridley, is left in equal shares all the decedent's business in this city. The sum of $100,000 is left to Mrs. Ridley, and after her remarriage or death it is to go to her daughter, Clara Weiman Ridley. The sum of $25,000 is left to each or the three daughters, Emma and Clara Ridley and Frances S. Hughes, and $20,000 to a grandson, Edward Ridley, to be held for him in trust until he is thirty years of age, and if he is then addicted to intemperance or a last life it is to be withheld at the judgment of the executors until he reforms. The sum of $500 a year, for seven years, is left to the Methodist Educopal Church of Parkville, L. I., and $200 a year for seven years is left to the dethodist Educopal Church of Parkville, L. I., and $200 a year for seven years to the Sunday-school of the church. To the two first-named left to the Methodist Episcopal Church of Park ville, L. I., and $200 a year for seven years to the Sunday-school of the church. To the two first-named executors $5,000 apiece is bequeathed.

The plate, household furniture, library, horses, carriages and other goods and chattels at the Gravesend residence are left to Mrs. Ridley. The residue of the estate is bequeathed absolutely to the two sons, Edward Albert and Arthur John Ridley. A clause provides that any of those benefited by the will who shall contest in court shall forfeit all right under its provisions. The bequests to Mrs. Ridley are in lieu of her dower.

DYING ON HIS KNEES.

DYING ON HIS KNEES.

Inquiry was made at the breakfast table in the boarding-house No. 194 West Tenth-st., yesterday morning, for Alexander Webber, a young German who had occupied a roomon an upper floor. Webber had been noticeably punctual in his habits, and his failure to appear for his breakfast at the regular hour caused surprise among the other boarders. It was known that he had engaged passage on a steamship which will sail from New-York to-day. Some of the boarders knocked at the door of Webber's room, which was locked on the inside, Failing to get any response they at length broke into the room and found Webber's body supported in a kneeling position by a chair near the bed. He had died several hours before, probably about midnight. An empty phial which had contained prussic acid was found near his body, indicating that he had committed suicide. He had died in the attitude of prayer and the expression of his face was peacetil.

attitude of prayer and the expression of his face was peacetul.

Webber's death caused much surprise among the inmates of the house, who said they knew no cause for the suicide. Not a scrap of writing was found in the room to explain his desperate deed. In conversation with his acquaintances on Thursday Webber expressed delight at the prospect of returning to his home in Hanover, which he left about a year ago. He had been haunted for some time by a fear of heart disease, but on Thursday evening, when he was last seen alive, he appeared to be in excellent spirits. Webber was employed as a book-keeper by O. K. Krause, at No. 93 Franklin-st, who said he would take charge of the body. It was said that Webber's accounts were correct and that there was no suspicion that he had been dishouest.

THE BOILER WHICH EXPLODED.

THE BOILER WHICH EXPLODED.

Workmen were busy yesterday cutting strips from the old boiler of the Riverdale, to be submitted to the Inspectors of Steamboats at their investigation on Tuesday. The strips were nearly all taken from the bottom, where the explosion took place, and were marked by Assistant Keel Inspector Stephens. General Dumoat personally supervised the cutting and stated to a TRIBTONE reporter that he had some pretty decided views about the duties of steamboat inspectors, and he hoped that the investigation which is about to be made would be made as openly and publicly as possible. While examining the boiler which did not explode, General Dumout pointed out that the process of corrosion was plainly at work on it too.

A WINDFALL FOR MR. ROSS.

Peter B. Ross, of Monitor-st., Brooklyn. separated from his wite about twenty years ago. Before parting each had reade a will, bequeathing his or her state to the survivor. Mrs. Ross died in New-York about three weeks ago, but her husband did not learn of her death until this week. He then thought of the old will, but naturally concluded that a later document made it of no value. A search of the Surrogate's office, however, showed that no will had been offered, and the Public Administrator had taken charge of the estate. Mr. Ross thus comes into possession of about $30,000.

THE DEATH OF BARKEEPER MONAHAN. Coroner Mitchell at Yonkers yesterday concluded the inquest on the body of John Monahan, which was found in the river on Wednesday. The evidence disclosed that the woman to whom Monaban showed marked attentions on an excursion to Fort Lee on Sunday, when he was barkeeper on the tugboat Gazelle, was Fanny Brown, and her male companion was W. T. Pierpont; both were from Yonkers. It appeared, also, that instead of having any trouble with this pair, Monahan joined them at a restaurant in Main-st., Yonkers, after the return of the excursion boat at night. Monahan was drunk and his new friends left him in the restaurant. It is thought that the drunken man fell into the river while irving to board the tug later at night, and that the contusions on his face were caused by his striking the boat as he fell. The verdict of the jury was that he came to his death by drowning.

IRON AND STREL WORKERS.

TESTIMONY AS TO THEIR CONDITION.

JOHN JARRETT, WILLIAM MARTIN AND OTHER BEFORE THE BLAIR COMMITTEE.

JOHN JARRETT, WILLIAM MARTIN AND OTHERS
BEFORE THE BLAIR COMMITTEE.

There were less than a dozen people present in Room No. 100 of the Federal Building yesterday morning when President Jarrett, of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, took the stand to continue his testimony before Senator Blair's committee. The witness began by saying that the couvict labor system was detrimental to the interests of the working classes of this country. If men within the prisons of the nation had to be employed during the period of their servitude, they should be engaged in the making of good roads. Mr. Jarrett maintained that the organization of working-men into trade associations had resulted not only in the advancement of their wages, but had also given them a social status which they never could have obtained in any other way. The first iron-workers' union established in this country was founded in 1858, and was known as the Sons of Vulcan. When he came to America in 1862 he immediately interested himself in the welfare of the iron-workers, and did much to improve their condition by bringing about concerted action. One of the great principles which had been emphasized by the organizations thus founded, was the importance of letting liquor drinking alone. Many of the men were now members of churches and took an interest in the social and economic qustions of the day.

"The condition of the coal and iron miners of Pennsylvania, however, is pitiable," continues Mr. Jarrett. "They are poorly paid and hence are exposed to all the evis of the truck system, which for many years has kept them in a state almost as bad as slavery. I have heard of several men who had so savery as a single dollar of their earnings in their own hands. Much of their money go s to the liquor dealer. There are better laws in England for the protection of this class of men than in this country. Unler the laws there inspectors are appointed to examine the mines every morning before the laborers enter them. The truck system is prohibited and of labor statistics in order that accurate information might be obtained concerning all labor matters.

"Yes, I think it would be a wise plan to have such a bureau established," said the witness, "as it seems almost impossible to obtain reliable statistics either from the census or the newspapers. It is the general opinion of the laboring classes that the press of this country is subsidized by capitalists. Protection or free trade is advocated according to the dictates of native or imported capital."

"You will observe," said senator Blair in a sarcastic tone, "that your remarks on this point will be suppressed by the newspapers—inless the remark I now make shall lead to their publication." William Martin, secretary of the Amalgamated Association of Irou and Steel Workers, gave the committee a sketch of that organization. He committee a sketch of that organization, the committee a sketch of that organization which was employed in settling the question of wages and the difficulties which from time to time arise between manufacturers and their workmen had proved efficient in every instance. Strikes and the subsequent evils which follow were rarely ever know a in inose nulls to which the system had been adopted. William Weihe, of Pittsburg, an iron puddler, was the next witness. The condition of the men in his own trade, he said, was satisfactory. They were for the most part well paid and well treated by their employers. The coal miners, of whom he knew a large number, were poorly paid; 312 cents a basket was a lithey could get for mining the coal, and seventy-ive baskets were considered a good day's work.

Thomas N. Miller, superintendent of the Atlas would be a supplementation of the Atlas and seventy-ive baskets were considered as good day's work.

and seventy-five baskets were considered a good day's work.

Thomas N. Miller, superintendent of the Atlas Rolling Mills at 11tisburg, said that it would be far better for the manufacturers if the associations of workingmen were more generally distributed throughout the country. "It is a fact," he continued, "that the personal relations between employers and employes are not of as intimate a nature as they formerly were. Manufacturers now treat with the organizations rather than with individuals. The criticisms which have been made upon capitalists, or rather the manufacturers throughout the country, in regard to the hours of indor which they demand from their workingmen, are unjust. There are many of these men who have thousands of people in their employ, who work more hours a day than the laborers themselves."

Mr. Miller said in conclusion that he did not beheve that a national eight-hour law could be en-

ONCE NATHAN, NOW NEWTON.

It was formally announced at the Stock Exchange yesterday that Julius Nathau's name had been changed to Julius Newton by order of court. Mr. Nathan has been in Europe for a year or mure, and returned to New-York only about six weeks ago. Since his return he has spent a large part of his time at paratoga. It is reported that when he arrived there he registered his name at the Grand Union Hotel, which was made Limous a few years ago by Judge Hilton's refusal to receive Hebrew guests. Mr. Nathau had secured a change of name before this, but the fact had not become generally known. He sought a popular recognition of the change by the announcement made at the Stock Exchange.

Exchange.

Mr. Nathan became a member of the Stock Exchange at the time of the consolidation with the open Board. He had been a dealer in Government bonds. He was afterward a partner with James A. McMeken, and still later with I. & S. Wormser. He retired from the latter time about two years ago, and with a fortune estimation about two years ago, and with a fortune estimation. with I. & S. It is said that he was annoyed during his visit by many inquiries as to his connections in this country, and that he asked the privilege of chang-ing his name on this account.

TESTIMONY ABOUT BOYLE'S ESCAPE. The testimony taken by Sheriff Stegman, of Kings County, relative to the escape, last week, of James Boyle, alias "Jimmy" Burns, from the Raymond Street Jail, after having been laid before the District-Attorney, was made public yesterday. The evidence showed that Boyle was allowed to have his cell door open and to walk on the corridor of the tier. Warden Schultz testified that he saw the cell door open but sunosed that it was by the corless his cell door open and to walk on the corridor of the tier. Warden Schultz testified that he saw the cell door open, but supposed that it was by the order of the jail physician. Among Boyle's visitors had been "Rei" Leary, the bank thief, and "Billy" Porter and "Shang" Draper, of the Patchen-ave, gang of burgiars, Keepers Cowan and Julian testified that Boyle's cell was open every day, but they did not know by whose orders. Keeper Julian said that he called the Warden's attention to this and Warden's attention to this and Warden's Achiltz had told him that "Shang" Draper had said that Boyle would not escape. The female searcher of the jail testified that she was not called to search Mrs. Boyle on the day of the escape, and it was shown by other witnesses that Mrs. Boyle visited her husband and spent some time with him that day.

Sheriff Stegman said vesterday that in the face of the testimony he would make some sweeping changes in the jail force.

BUILDINGS THAT THREATEN TO FALL.

Of the six families that occupied the tenement house No. 79 Washington-st., which had been reported inisafe, all but two had moved out yesterday, and those were on the top floor, where the work of demolition must begin, if indeed it does not begin of itself at the botton floors.

The tenements Nos. 7 and 9 Caroline-st, and 193 West-st, were reported as unsafe, but no notice has yet been sent to the owners, Malioney Brothers, carpenters, of No. 52 New-Bowery. The neighbors say that the houses cannot fait until some of the adjoining houses go. Mr. Mahoney said yesterday ne had intended to pull it down last May, but an unexpired lease head by the tenant of the ground floor prevented. As soon as he receives notice he will begin to pull them down. The buildings are old, and although they look stronger than some new houses, the floors have been levelled several times. The property as it stands is unremunerative as well as dangerous.

A NORTH CAROLINA SIERCHANT MISSING.

The poince were informed yesterday of the mysterious disappearance of Honry J. Williams, a merchant of Greensboro, N. C., who came to this city about three mouths ago to transact business. Mr. Williams while in the city usually staid with his relative, Oscar E. Dudley, a chemist, of No. 62 East One-hundred-and-twenty-hith-st. He left Mr. Dadley's house on July 10, intending to return to his home. He did not reach Greensboro at the time he had mentioned to his family in letters sent from this city, and a recent interchange of telegrams with the family has convinced Mr. Dudley that Mr. Williams is missing. It is not known if he left this city, but his friends fear that he met with some accident in his journey toward his home. Mr. Williams is described as forty-live years old, short and stout, with light hair and red beard and mustache. He was round-shouldered and the two middle ingers was round-shouldered and the two middle lingers of his left hand had been cut off at the first joint.

678 Broadway, fell through an elevator shaft at an early hour yesterday morning in the building No. 10 Waverley-place, where he had a room. His thigh was broken and two or three bones of the wrist were crushed. He was insensible when discovered at the bottom of the shaft by a man who heard the fall. At St. Vincent's Hospital it was said that his injuries were not likely to prove fatal. It was said at No. 10 Waverley-place that Mr. Dillingham was irregular in his habits at times. The belief was that he was intoxi ated when he returned to the house and that he mistook the open door of the elevator shaft for the door of his room. 678 Broadway, fell through an elevator shaft at an

THE EXCISE BOARD CRITICISED.

WHAT MR. HAUGHTON SAYS IN DEFENCE. SHOULD A LICENSE HAVE BEEN GRANTED TO

GEORGE J. GREENET

President Haughton, of the Board of Excise, received a communication from Mayor Edson a week agon reference to charges against George J. Greene, proprietor of a liquor snop at No. 120 East Thirteenth-st., to whom the board granted a license on August 10. Accompanying the communication were cooies of a letter from D. J. Whitney and of a report which was made to Mr. Whitney by Thomas Daily, an agent of the Society for the Prevention of Crime. The Mayor cailed Mr. Haughton's attention to the statements from the agents of the society and demanded an explanation. The statements were to the effect that the Board of Excise had granted a license to Greene in the face of a lifense to Greene in the face of a fifteest signed by many respectable residents of East Thirteenth-st., and that opportunity had not been given to these residents to furnish evidence in support of the protest. It was stated that Greene's character did not warrant the Board in granting him a heeses, that he had been convicted of a felony, and that his social and family relations were bad. The charge was made also that Greene had been detected in violation of the excise law on Sanday, August 26, only sixteen days after he receive i his license.

relations were bad. The charge was made also that Greene had been detected in violation of the excise law on Sinday, August 26, only sixteen days after he receive i his license.

Mr. Haughton sent a reply to the Mayor on Wednesday stating that if the damaging charges in reference to Greene's character had been made and proven before the Board of Excise, the license would not have been granted; but he defended the action of the Board on the ground that the inv-strgation which was made previous to August 10 resulted in Greene's favor. Copies of petitions, affidavits and letters which were sent to the Board of Excise in regard to Greene's application were furnished to the Mayor in defence of the board's action. Among the affidavits are those of five citizens who signed the protest against the granting of the license, declaring that their signatures were obtained by means of faiss representations. Letters from other sign-ris of the protest stated that they withdrew their opposition to Greene. There was a memorial, also signed by residents of East Thirteenth-st., asking the board to grant Greene a license. Statements were furnished to the board that the opposition 'o Greene was made in the interest of the proprietor of the Clarendon Hotel, a business rival.

In his reply to the Mayor, Mr. Haughton says that the board came to the conclusion that Greene was a proper person to receive a license. The heene was not granted, however, until weeks after the application was made, and ample time was given for the production of any existing evidence against Greene's moral character of a liquor-dealer than are business firms for the commercial standing of persons who buy goods from them. He also asserts t'at it the board consumed too much time in searching after the reputation of the applicants for licenses, the charge might be made that the board or fire law on August 26 is to be investigated by the boand on Tuesday.

Mr. Whitney expressed hie surprise to a reporter of The Transure that here was a story in the case (which he d

THE INQUIRY INTO MAS. BOYD'S DEATH.

Justice Waltace, of Fresport, yesterday continued the examination in the case of James Craw ford, who is charged with having caused the deat of his mother-in-law, Mrs. E. C. Boyd, who died a not suomit to ismoval from the but where should. On the day before ner death, Mrs. Urnwford coatinued, she has gone to her mother and at the request of her husband had carried to her some chill medicine—a mixture of wild cherry bark, peppermint leaves. Irish moss and hops. Of this medicine Mrs. Boyd complained that it burned her. She also gave her mother some patenteough medicine, and on the day she died some special and paregoric and a Scidluz powder. The witness said that her mother had been troubled with an abscess besides kidney and lang complaints. The District-A torney not being present, Justice Wallace declined to take further testimony. In reply to a request of comisel that the defendant be discharged on his own recognizance, the Justice said that so far the evidence did not show that a crime had been committed by the prisoner, and therefore he would see the County Judge personally and ask that bad be fixed at such a sum as the defendant cound readily find. With this understanding the examination was adjourned until October 19. The stomach and lives of the decased woman are still in the possession of Dr. Denton, of Freeport. No chemical analysis has been made, owing to the small appropriation made by the Queens County Board of Supervisors for that purpose, $50.

THE METHODS OF A SWINDLER. conndence man, who borrowed the name of a Mahoney, an iron founder of Troy, N. Y., called Lung & Nan's furniture store in Fulton-st., Mr. Mahoney, an iron founder of Froy, N. Y., called at Lang & Nan's furniture store in Fulton-st., Brooklyn, on Thesday, and ordered goods worth $555 to be shipped to his address in Froy, saying that he would pay for them in the evening. He did not return, and the firm communicated with the real Mahoney, and learned that the man who preceded to the name was a swincher. The police were informed of this and also learned yesterday that the same swindler had presented a check for $1,000 upon a New-York bank in payment for goods worth $520, which he bought in Broadway, Brookiyn. The check was accepted and $500 in change given. Yesterday it was found that payment on the check had been stopped, and it appears that he swindler had received it in exchange for a bogus $2,000 check which he palmed off on a New-York intriture dealer, receiving the check for $1,000 and about $500 in money. As soon as the $2,000 check was found to be faise the payment was stopped upon the one for $1,000.
